

King Salmon fishing trip for four – If cranking Kings out of Lake Michigan is what you and your friends or family are seeking, then cast off with Captain Dave Heath and his guides and head towards blue water!

Door County is a time-castle of Scandinavian and Belgian roots with century old lighthouses serving as guiding lights to vessels along their journeys in Lake Michigan. Traverse Death's Door by ferry at the northern tip and take a step back in time on Washington Island. Fish are plenty in these chilled northern waters, but make no mistake, it is the deep water kings that this excursion will target.

Stocking in the Great Lakes dates back to the late 1800's but it was nearly 100-years later that the Chinook salmon, also known as, "King" salmon, began to create a sport-fishery that draws anglers from around the country to fish Lake Michigan. Enhance your experience back on land with hearty dinner meals, an open bar, and a relaxing atmosphere as "spooled" reels give way to cherished memories of the future.
